

This Scottish word tartle has been borrowed also by the English on account of its precision, as it very specifically signifies the hesitation in recalling a person's name upon greeting or introducing him / her to someone else.

Click on the picture above for an ARTICLE on this and other loan words in English