Willard Wigard and Ottaviano Jannella

Willard Wigard (Wednesfield, 1957) has recently gained a reputation for carving microscopic sculptures on the inside of needle eyes. Albeit jaw-dropping, his work is not groundbreaking, as it is solidly rooted in the ancient tradition of cameo chiseling. One of the most remarkable micro-artists of Western art history is Ottaviano Jannella (Ascoli Piceno, 1635-1661), whose extraordinarily carved rosary beads are on exhibition at the Art Gallery of Ontario in Toronto, Canada.
